

The Colours of the Rainbow

HOLISTIC HEALING WITH ESOGETIC MEDICINE

'LET THERE BE LIGHT' IS PROBABLY THE BEST KNOWN PHRASE EVER WRITTEN. OVER THE AGES, LIGHT HAS BEEN OUR FRIEND.

Peter Mandel – throwing some light on the subject

We can't talk about Colourpuncture and Esogetic Medicine without first introducing Peter Mandel. Peter's ability to think outside the box and his genuine desire to help people is what has driven him on through over 33 years of research that culminated in these incredible new, painless and non-invasive holistic approaches to health and healing.

Peter studied and worked in various areas of natural medicine (naturopathy, homeopathy, acupuncture, chiropractic and massage). He recognised that conflicts and traumas from our early days, even from within the womb, can set in motion a chain of events that results in unresolved issues corrupting the molecules of life and health, eventually manifesting first as various symptoms and culminating in disease (physical or mental).

Over a 33 year period of rigorous testing under scientific conditions, observation, experimentation, Peter introduced us to the concept he calls Esogetic Medicine.

What is Esogetic Medicine?

The term 'Esogetic Medicine' is a combination of the 'eso-' from 'esoteric' and '-getic' from 'energetic'. Peter Mandel coined the phrase to encompass a range of diagnostic and therapeutic systems based on ancient knowledge of human existence and the laws of the universe.

Rather than treating conditions on a symptomatic basis, Esogetic Medicine aims to treat disease on as many levels as possible. Indeed, one of the most important properties of Esogetic Medicine is the step-by-step recognition and treatment of complaints through all the layers of the body, the consciousness and the subconscious.

Kirlian Diagnosis

As all practitioners know, diagnosis is the prerequisite of therapy. Working on the basis that cells communicate through colour, Peter started by finding a means of capturing the 'words' so that there could be diagnosis and treatment. He originated a diagnostic system of Kirlian photography called Energy Emission Analysis. Kirlian cameras can capture, on black and white photography paper, the energy field in each acupuncture meridian in the fingers and toes. Through early diagnosis and follow-up therapeutic intervention, the deterioration to a more advanced phase of disease can be prevented. The Kirlian photo not only reveals the symptoms, but also points the practitioner towards the root cause of imbalance. It is designed to address the non-physical origins of illness as well as its physical symptoms.

The picture shown is an example of a Kirlian photo from which healers can view the energies moving in a single cell and form a tree dimensional picture of the whole person.

Colourpuncture

Colourpuncture is a healing tool using colour light, instead of needles, on acupuncture points and others points of the body. In Colourpuncture light is transmitted via the meridians into the body, to the cells of the organs and to the brain. It works on clearing blockages on the physical, emotional and mental levels: Body – Mind – Spirit.

When we talk about 'light' and 'colour' in the context of Esogetic Medicine we are discussing the energy of light, the frequency of electromagnetic vibrations and the unique wavelengths that result in and even identify the colour. There is a specific vibration for every colour on the spectrum and no two colours have identical wavelengths.

Colourpuncture is gentle, pain free and non-invasive and offers a real therapeutic alternative medicine.
